

Announcing Two 16-Day (Four-Part) Retreats, Series 2 and 3, in 2012: Healing, Learning, and Self-Empowerment

Do you find it harder to smile these days, because inside you feel sad, hurt, weak, fearful, and/or insecure?

Are you feeling somewhat powerless or worthless lately and finding more fault with yourself than usual?

Are you finding it difficult to feel anything at all?

Is your view of yourself based on what you know to be true or on what others have taught or said about you?

Do you, because of past or other experiences, negate your self-worth and devalue yourself as a person?

Would you like to tap into your authentic self, find more joy and peace, feel self-confident, and build on the strengths you already have to continue with your life's journey in a balanced way?

If one or more of these questions have been on your mind, then you may be interested in this offer.

Lazy M Lodge, Positive Change Coaching, White Thunderbird Healing, and Night Eagle Consultants warmly invite adults to come to the beautiful Lazy M Lodge near Caroline, Alberta, and experience a four-part retreat series that is personally empowering and holistically balancing.

About The Team . . .

Marcel Gour and Randy McGhee are the owners of The Lazy M Lodge, who open their arms and hearts to all who enter. It is their dream that their Lodge be a safe place for all; that they become leaders in providing their guests with an opportunity to reconnect with self and nature; that they enhance the quality of people's lives by hosting holistic, personally empowering, and healing programs offered by their guest facilitators; and that they spend time with their guests and facilitators as they Rest, Relax, & Recharge. This new adventure in life is something both Marcel and Randy are committed to, and so they have kept their hearts and eyes open and have connected with others who, like them, are passionate about being of service to others. Their dream lead them to the rest of the team.

Carol McKenzie is a Certified Professional Coach who loves working with people, who specializes in life skills, personal life, and recovery coaching, and who is passionate about sharing her knowledge for the benefit of self, family, community, and nation. A few years ago, she had a vision of a holistic healing centre, where people could come and participate in healing, self-empowering, community-minded, and team-building workshops; so she kept her heart and eyes open to possible connections with others who had a passion like hers. While on this quest, she was blessed to meet Rosa Medicine Traveller, Leonard McCallum, Brad Sargent, Marcel Gour, and Randy McGhee – all of whom share a vision of creating a safe place for people to heal and grow emotionally, physically, spiritually, and mentally. Together, they have joined their hearts and merged their skills to offer a selection of holistic, healing, and empowerment programs at the Lazy M Lodge. Together, they walk the path of the warrior, the teacher, the healer, and the visionary.

Rosa Medicine Traveller is a Siksika member of the Blackfoot Nation whose Blackfoot name is Sai Pa Na ko mi, which means Beautiful Night Caller. She is a well-known facilitator and trainer and a survivor of residential school trauma and grief. Through this experience, Rosa has developed a strong desire and mission to share with others the contemporary and traditional knowledge and wisdom she gained from her healing journey. She loves helping people learn to be their true selves and teaching them how to nurture themselves in a balanced way. She leads various workshops on topics like holistic healing, feeding your spirit, and self-empowerment, and often teaches the Sacred Pathways of the Medicine Wheel during her workshops. Rosa follows the Seven Teachings of love, honesty, wisdom, humility, truth, respect, and bravery; and her warmth, kindness, gentleness, intelligence, and thoughtfulness draw people to her. Rosa shares a holistic, healing vision with the team and is enthusiastic about co-facilitating the empowerment programs at the Lazy M Lodge.

Leonard McCallum is a gifted Cree Native from Northern Saskatchewan who helps people wake up to their true inner being and free themselves of the issues and negative feelings that may be hindering their lives. He helps them to understand the causes of dysfunction, stress, and negativity, and to learn how to overcome them by creating a positive foundation and building on it. His teachings are also about personal development, stepping out of your comfort zone, and learning how to heal yourself and your life on a mental, emotional, physical, and spiritual level. He bases his teachings on the four directions of the Medicine Wheel and offers people a new beginning -- a journey filled with joy, peace, love, and freedom -- and teaches them to have a better connection with themselves, others, nature, and the Creator. Leonard's Holistic Wellness and Healing program serves to empower individuals, families, and communities, to create health and happiness in their environments, and to build on the foundations of love, unity, and acceptance. Leonard has been sharing his heartfelt healing gift in the workshops he facilitates at the Lazy M Lodge, and he welcomes this new gift of collaboration with the team.

Brad Sargent is a warm-hearted, caring, thoughtful person who is Leonard's manager. Like the rest of the team, Brad shares a vision of a healing center and works to make that dream a reality. He provides much needed assistance not only to Leonard but to the rest of the team, whenever and wherever help is needed. As well, he is instrumental in getting the word out about all of us, and he works tirelessly on his own time to help promote what we all have to offer. Brad's positive, spiritual, loving energy flows out and embraces us all.
